

The world of Elden Ring is a fantasy world born from the fantasy action RPG "Legend of Mana". It is a world in which a third-year university student named Tarnished bears the ring of power created by the Gods and raised to wield it against their own will. Tarnished singlehandedly attacks the demonic forces led by the monster god Vakallun, however it is a world where the power of the ring is linked to the personalities of its bearer and power does not automatically strengthen the bearer. Tarnished must suffer together with the Vakallun during their invasion of the world until the final battle. The game tells the story of the Tarnished, whose destiny is centered on achieving a goal of his own choosing, as he struggles to understand his own power and bear the burden of the sins of the ring.

Would you want to play an action RPG where you can create your own character?

Since the game places much emphasis on matching the combat power of your character with your opponent, and it showcases the strength of the character that you create, I am very much looking forward to it.

Could you tell us the fantasy genre that you are aiming for?

It is mainly for adults. However, there may be a few twists like some YS games.

Elden Ring gameplay explanation: 3rd-generation gameplay that has not been changed at all from the previous version. Even though "RPG" means "Role-playing game," you can do whatever you want in this game and there is no story line telling you to "Do good" or "Fight" like in "RPGs" that you've played. IN THE BEGINNING... Tarnished was once an Elden Lord. His sins were found out and he was banished from the Elden Kingdom. Now, he can only make one final attempt to return home. The Lands Between is a world unlike any other, where it will be very difficult to return home from this arduous journey. ...AND THAT'S IT. Details on our game: • The Lands Between is a great fantasy world that has not been explored by anyone for hundreds of years. • It is a world where there are magical beings and mysterious monsters that populate the world. • Several hundred years ago, the races living in the world scattered and lost their knowledge, and most of them disappeared. Their cities were left to decay. In the center of the world, the "Dragon Clan" living in the capital city, Rae-Auris, held onto their Elden technology and invested it in the research and development of the best possible weapons and magic. They occupied the center of the world. • A crystal that allows travel through time and space appeared when the world started to turn into a place of decay. With this, they wanted to be able to communicate with those who lived in the past and future. The clans that lived in the world all scattered to the four winds. • In a battlefield known as the "Wards," an endless war was fought that left the world in a total disaster. There were no victors, no losers, and no survivors in that war. • The destination... the capital city, Rae-Auris, is very far away from the center of the world, over a thousand miles. The world has been separated into two by the "Wards." The half where Tarnished can live is called the East, and the half that belongs to the capital city is called the West. • Tarnished has a great amount of power... Some call him the "Lords of Evil," while
